Exploring Your Experiences

Although you might not think so, you have a wealth of experiences to draw from in applying for jobs! You've been a learner for years, gathering skills and knowledge through classes, jobs, volunteering, athletic pursuits, hobbies, co-curricular activities and more.

If you had to talk about the following experiences during a job interview, what would you say? Jot down some thoughts here.

- Working with Diverse Individuals
- Problem Solving
- Critical Thinking
- Learning from a Mistake
- Leadership
Handling Conflict

Writing

Marketing

Programming

Presenting Information to Groups

Decision Making
Using Technology

Being Part of a Team

Transferring Something You Learned in Class to Another Aspect of Your Life

Transferring Something You Learned Outside of Class to Another Aspect of Your Life

Taking Initiative

Analyzing & Interpreting Data

Once you've completed this worksheet, take some time to think about the experience and knowledge you haven't gained yet and how you can go about adding them to your repertoire.