ROBERT F. KENNEDY, JR.’S reputation as a resolute defender of the environment comes from many struggles for environmental justice around the world. Mr. Kennedy was named one of TIME magazine’s “Heroes for the Planet” for his success in helping Riverkeeper lead the fight to restore the Hudson River, and in 2009 he was named one of Rolling Stone’s “100 Agents of Change.”

Mr. Kennedy serves as senior attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council, is a partner in the clean tech work of Silicon Valley’s VantagePoint Ventures, and is a clinical professor and supervising attorney at Pace University School of Law’s Environmental Litigation Clinic.
