Your Workers
Compensation Benefits - California

This form should be given to all newly hired employees in the State of California.

Any person who makes or causes to be made any knowingly false or fraudulent material statement or material representation for the purpose of obtaining or denying workers compensation benefits or payments is guilty of a felony.

You may be entitled to workers compensation benefits if you are injured or become ill because of your job, or are a victim of a workplace crime. Workers compensation covers most work-related physical or mental injuries and illnesses. An injury or illness can be caused by one event (such as hurting your back in a fall) or by repeated exposures (such as hurting your wrist from doing the same motion over and over).

Workers compensation benefits include:

Medical Care: Doctor visits, hospital services, physical therapy, lab tests, x-rays, and medicines that are reasonably necessary to treat your injury. You should never see a bill. Physical therapy, occupational therapy and chiropractic visits may be limited to 24 each.

Temporary Disability Benefits: Payments if you lose wages while recovering. For most injuries after April 18, 2004, temporary disability benefits are limited to two years. Filing a timely Employment Development Department claim may result in additional state disability benefits when TTD benefits are terminated, delayed or denied.

Permanent Disability Benefits: Payments if your injury causes a permanent disability. Once your injury stabilizes, your treating physician may find permanent disability, depending upon your level of recovery. The amount of permanent disability found by your doctor will be rated by your claims administrator according to your age, occupation, and diminished future earning capacity in order to determine the percentage and corresponding dollar amount of permanent disability due. These amounts are set by state law. You have the right to obtain a state disability rating or appeal a rating. Contact your claims administrator for more information.

Supplemental Job Displacement Vouchers: If your injury occurs on or after January 1, 2004, you may receive a supplemental job displacement voucher if your injury results in permanent disability and your employer is unable to accommodate your new restrictions. The voucher is for education-related costs and the amount is dependent upon your level of permanent disability, payable per a state approved schedule.

Death Benefits: Paid to dependents of a worker who dies from a work-related injury or illness.

Temporary disability, permanent disability, and death benefits are all payable at a rate based on 2/3 of your average weekly wage, and subject to state minimum and maximum amounts in effect on your date of injury. These benefits are paid every two weeks while you are eligible.

If You Get Hurt:

Get Medical Care. If you need first aid, contact your employer. If you need emergency care, call for help immediately.

Report Your Injury. Report the injury immediately to your supervisor. Don’t delay. There are time limits. If you wait too long, you may lose your right to benefits. Your employer is required to provide you a claim form within one working day after learning about your injury, and must also authorize treatment within one working day after you have returned a signed and completed copy of the form. The statute of limitations for filing a workers compensation claim is one year from the date of injury or, if resulting from repeated exposures, one year from when you realized or should have realized that your job caused it.

See Your Treating Physician. Your primary treating physician is the doctor with overall responsibility for treating your injury or illness. He or she is charged with maintaining the continuity of your care, as well as initiating referrals to specialists. If your employer has an approved Medical Provider Network (MPN), they may be able to limit your choices of treating physicians retain medical control, and require you to treat with an MPN physician from the onset. (An MPN is a selected network of healthcare providers who provides treatment to workers injured on the job. See your employer for more information on your MPN.) Otherwise, your employer has the right to select the physician who will treat you for the first 30 days. If your employer does not have an approved MPN and you wish to change doctors in the first 30 days after reporting your claim, your claims administrator must select a new physician within five days of your request.

If you have provided your employer with the name of your personal physician before your injury, you may see him or her for treatment even if your employer has an approved MPN. Your personal physician must be a general practitioner or a board-certified or board-eligible internist, pediatrician, obstetrician-gynecologist, family practitioner, or multi-specialty medical group of doctors of medicine or osteopathy, and must have treated you and maintained your medical history and records before your work injury and must also agree to treat you for a work-related injury or illness. If your employer does not have an approved MPN and you gave your employer the name of your personal chiropractor or acupuncturist in writing before you were injured, you may switch to the chiropractor or acupuncturist upon request. If you still need medical care after 30 days, you may be able to switch to a doctor of your own choice.

For your convenience, optional forms that you can use to pre-designate your personal physician, multi-specialty medical group of doctors of medicine or osteopathy or, if applicable, acupuncturist or chiropractor, and give to your employer, are attached to this document.

Discrimination: It is illegal for your employer to punish or fire you for having a work injury or illness, for filing a claim, or testifying in another person's workers compensation case. You may also have additional rights under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) or the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA). For additional information, contact FEHA at 800-884-1684 or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) at 800-669-3362. You can get free information from a state Division of Workers' Compensation Information & Assistance Officer. Hear recorded information and a list of local offices by calling toll-free 800-736-7401 or learn more online at: http://www.dir.ca.gov.

If medical care is not being provided by your employer you have several options. First, contact your claims administrator to find out the status of your claim. If you have given your employer a completed and signed claim form but your claim has been delayed for investigation, your employer is still required to authorize treatment, up to $10,000.00, during the delay. If the claim has not been accepted yet and your medical costs have exceeded the statutory $10,000.00 cap, you can go to your group health plan for care, find a doctor, clinic or hospital that will bill the claims administrator directly, or use public health services.

You have the right to disagree with decisions affecting your claim. If you have a disagreement, contact your claims administrator first to see if you can resolve it.

You can obtain free information from an Information and Assistance Officer of the state Division of Workers’ Compensation, or you can hear recorded information and a list of local offices by calling 800-736-7401. You may also go to the DWC web site at: http://www.dir.ca.gov for further information.

You can consult with an attorney. Most attorneys offer one free consultation. If you decide to hire an attorney, his or her fee may be taken out of some of your benefits. For names of workers compensation attorneys, call the State Bar of California at 415-538-2120 or go to their web site at: http://www.californiaspecialist.org.
